Peer influence and peer pressure

Peer influence refers to the phenomenon where individuals engage in behaviours they wouldn't typically do in order (23) _____ accepted and valued by their friends. While the term "peer pressure" is often used, "peer influence" more accurately captures (24) _____ shaped by their desire to belong to a peer group. This influence can be positive, leading to new activities, or greater involvement in school.

However, it can also have negative consequences, with some teens engaging in activities like smoking or behaving antisocially due to peer influence.

It is normal (25) _____ about their child being excessively influenced by peers or compromising their own values to fit in. (26) _____, it's important to note that sharing similar music tastes or dressing similarly to friends doesn't necessarily mean that a child will (27) _____ antisocial or risky behaviours. A child who is content with their own identity, choices, and values is less likely to be influenced by others. Additionally, parental influence plays (28) _____ in shaping a child's values and long-term decision-making.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the following questions.

One of the most obvious negative aspects of social networking is losing face-to-face contact with other people. Teens are sitting around with their phone in their hands all day long, tapping messages onto screens instead of communicating with real people. Many teenagers feel more comfortable with virtual friends than with real ones. The majority think that it is easier to chat on the Internet because they lack communication skills.

It is also true that parents often have no knowledge about what their kids do with their phones or computers. Crosby says that, "While kids are plugged into social media, only about 40% of parents are involved themselves." And because parents don't know the full picture, they also don't know how to deal with a teenager's potential overuse of social media and might not even be aware that a problem exists. Therefore, social networking can be much more immediately engaging with the teenager's life than parents are, and this fact makes virtual communication feel more "real" than face-to-face communication.

(Source: Adapted from We have kids)

- Question 25. What do most teenagers think about chatting on the Internet?
A. Chatting on the Internet is more difficult than talking with real people.
B. Chatting on the Internet is funnier than talking with real people.
C. Chatting on the Internet is more boring than talking with real people.
D. Chatting on the Internet is easier than talking with real people.

- Question 26. What's the OPPOSITE meaning of "virtual" in the context of the passage?
A. real B. computerised C. simulated D. digital

- Question 27. Which of the following best explains the word "overuse" in the passage?
A. using something overnight B. using something too much
C. using something without thinking D. using something with carelessness

- Question 28. Which of the following is NOT mentioned in the passage as a negative aspect of social networking for teenagers?
A. Losing face-to-face contact with other people B. Increased use of virtual friends
C. Lack of communication skills D. Increased parental involvement

- Question 29. What is the main idea of the passage?
A. Virtual life is easier than real life.
B. Parents should use social networks more to understand their children.
C. Students are using social networks too much.
D. Social networking brings negative effects to student's face-to-face communication.

- Question 30. According to the passage, what do many teenagers feel about virtual friends compared to real friends?
A. They feel more comfortable with real friends. B. They feel more comfortable with virtual friends.
C. They do not have any virtual friends. D. They have the same level of comfort with both.

Peer influence and peer pressure

Peer influence refers to the phenomenon where individuals engage in behaviours they wouldn't typically do in order (31) _____ accepted and valued by their friends. While the term "peer pressure" is often used, "peer influence" more accurately captures (32) _____ shaped by their desire to belong to a peer group. This influence can be positive, leading to new activities, or greater involvement in school.

However, it can also have negative consequences, with some teens engaging in activities like smoking or behaving antisocially due to peer influence.

It is normal (33) _____ about their child being excessively influenced by peers or compromising their own values to fit in. (34) _____, it's important to note that sharing similar music tastes or dressing similarly to friends doesn't necessarily mean that a child will (35) _____ antisocial or risky behaviours. A child who is content with their own identity, choices, and values is less likely to be influenced by others. Additionally, parental influence plays (36) _____ in shaping a child's values and long-term decision-making.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the following questions.

One of the most obvious negative aspects of social networking is losing face-to-face contact with other people. Teens are sitting around with their phone in their hands all day long, tapping messages onto screens instead of communicating with real people. Many teenagers feel more comfortable with virtual friends than with real ones. The majority think that it is easier to chat on the Internet because they lack communication skills.

It is also true that parents often have no knowledge about what their kids do with their phones or computers. Crosby says that, "While kids are plugged into social media, only about 40% of parents are involved themselves." And because parents don't know the full picture, they also don't know how to deal with a teenager's potential overuse of social media and might not even be aware that a problem exists. Therefore, social networking can be much more immediately engaging with the teenager's life than parents are, and this fact makes virtual communication feel more "real" than face-to-face communication.

Question 7. According to the passage, what do many teenagers feel about virtual friends compared to real friends? (Source: Adapted from We have kids)

A. They feel more comfortable with real friends.

B. They have the same level of comfort with both.

C. They do not have any virtual friends.

D. They feel more comfortable with virtual friends.

Question 8. Which of the following is NOT mentioned in the passage as a negative aspect of social networking for teenagers?

A. Increased parental involvement

B. Losing face-to-face contact with other people

C. Lack of communication skills

D. Increased use of virtual friends

Question 9. What's the OPPOSITE meaning of "virtual" in the context of the passage?

A. digital

B. simulated

C. computerised

D. real

Question 10. What do most teenagers think about chatting on the Internet?

A. Chatting on the Internet is more difficult than talking with real people.

B. Chatting on the Internet is easier than talking with real people.

C. Chatting on the Internet is more boring than talking with real people.

D. Chatting on the Internet is funnier than talking with real people.

Question 11. What is the main idea of the passage?
